OMAHA'S DEATH LIST NOW IS 200

Cyclone's Havoc Revealed As Rescuers Resume Labors in Ruins of City.

HUNDRED FUNERALS

Nebraska Metropolis Mourns For Victims of Terrific Storm on Easter Night.

OMAHA, March 26 .- That no less than 200 persons were killed in the cyclone Sunday night and Monday morning was evident today, when the rescue work was resumed. Lists of the missing were completed and more than 100 are unaccounted for

These, with the 115 bodies already taken from the ruins and eight who died from their injuries after the storm, will bring the death list to that figure, it is believed.

Funds from every section of the country arrived today to aid the housands of sufferers whose homes were wrecked. Half a hundred funerals were to be held today. The whole city is in mourning.

Relief Bureaus Started.

The greatest work today was that of rganizing a systematic relief bureau with seven branch stations in the territory covered by the tornado. These stretched over a strip seven miles long. and those in charge handed out material assistance to all comers who showed they were in need of aid.

In hospitals and public buildings that have been converted into hospitals, many sad scenes are being enacted. The nurses, many of whom have been on duty since Sunday night, are suffer Military law was strictly enforced to

Among the searchers was Mrs. W. Sherwood. Ill in bed. Mrs. Sherwood was holding her week-old babe in her arms, when the wind descended upon her little household. The home was unher little household. The home was un-reofed, the infant torn from the moth-er's arms and blown away so are it has not been found. In spite of her weak-ness and suffering from injuries she herself sustained in the storm, Mrs. Sherwood, aided by her friends, is hunting the hospitals and the impro-vised morgues about the city.

Bodies Are Found.

In Ralston Postmaster D. L. Ham, with his daughter, Mrs. Kimball, and his grandchildren were standing in the orway of their home when the wind struck them. Mrs. Kimball and her two year-old daughter, Frances, stepped outside the door, which slammed shut. Their bodies were found.

When the tornado rushed upon Omaha fifty nuns were in the Sacred Heart Compent. Seeing its approach, they hurried from the five-story building and sought refuge in the home of Bishop Richard Scannell, just across the street. No sooner had the last of the women left the convent than the building collapsed with a crash.
